WARRANT HOLDER'S SCHEME

Asks the Court to Give Him a Judgment for His Holdings.

Mandamus Proceedings Dropped and a Straight Suit Against the City Brought-How the Matter is Complicated.

Edmund Jefferis has taken steps to put in judgment against the city a number of outstanding warrants on the water and general funds held by him. The warrants in question were issued during the years 1896 and 1897 and under the recent ruling of the supreme court could not be paid out of the current revenues of the city until all expenses for the current year had been paid. It is said that a number of holders of outstanding warrants will take the same course and place their warrants in judgment against the city, as the chance of their being paid in any other manner within the near future appears very doubtful. Last May Jefferis brought suit in the superior court against City Treasurer Reed to enforce the payment of four warrants issued on the water fund in 1896. Yesterday he filed an amended petition in the case in which he now makes the city a defendant and withdraws his prayer for a writ of City mandamus against Reed. In the amendment he sets up the city is indebted to him in the sum of $2,366.66, being the amount of the four warrants on the water fund and interest, also that he is the holder of seven other warrants issued in 1896 and 1897 on the general fund amounting to $2,342.36, and asks that he be given judgment against the city in all for $4,986.18. Last June J. J. Shea, who was not satisfled with the answer made by Treasurer Reed in this suit, filed a petition of intervention, in which he asked that the warrants sued on be declared illegal and vold as issues beyond the limit fixed by the constitution of the state and that the court order the warrants surrendered and can-

City Attorney Wadsworth and J. J. Shea have filed in the district court a stipulation in the injunction suit brought by the latter to restrain the city from issuing bonds to refund the oustanding warrants issued prior to the present fiscal year. The terms of the stipulation provide that pending the decision on the injunction the city will not undertake to issue the bonds.

CLEAN SNOW FROM SIDEWALKS.

Chief of Police Bixby Says He Will Enforce the Ordinance. Chief of Police Bixby says that owing to the numerous complaints made about the manner in which snow is allowed to remain on the sidewalks the city ordinances governing this matter will be enforced. The chief believes that few people are aware of the fact that there is a city ordinance providing a penalty for neglect to sweep snow from the sidewalks. The following ordinance has been in effect since March,

"That the occupant of each and every basement or building in said city fronting upon any street or sidewalk which is of plank, stone, brick, iron or other material, or the owner of any unoccupied fot fronting as aforesaid, shall clear the sidewalk in front of such basement, building or unoccupied lot, as the case may be, of snow and ice by 9 o'clock in the forenoon in each day, and cause the same to be kept clear of said snow and ice, and every person copies of Snap Shots at the Council Bluffs omitting to clear off said sidewalk by the office of The Bee. of said city." In February, 1886, another ordinance was passed which provides that the occupants of any building fronting on a street which has been graded or paved and curbed and guttered in a permanent manner shall remove all embankments of snowdrifts from the gutterways from the edge of the sidewalk curb four feet within twenty-four hours after the same has accumulated. LAWYER ASSAILS THE BENCH

Stern Arraignment of an Ohio Court Made by Attorney in Burke Case.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 23 .- After hearing the testimony of several unimportant witnesses in the proceedings against State Senator Burke today, the attorneys for both sides announced that all their witnesses had been examined and that they were ready to be gin arguments. Attorney Johnson epene for the Bar association and Attorney Fran followed for the defense. Judge Blandin, one of the three prose cutors of the charges, arose to speak, as everyone supposed, in support of the charges and in defense of Judge Dellenbaugh. Instead of doing that, the judge made a bitter and sensational attack on the whole bench of Cuyahoga county. He said he knew the risk he was taking, but he did not care. For some time the ex-judges and old tried members of the bar who listened to Blandin's passionate utterances stood amazed at his daring. Then they broke into cheers. When Judge Blandin finished they cheered and clapped their hands again and again. Judge Blandin declared it was the bench which needed reforming first; the elimination of rottenness should commence with the bench. He went into details and did not hesitate to say he was talking about Judge Walter C. Ong and Judge T. K. Dissette. He said it was a comparatively insignificant thing whether Judge Dellenbaugh was impeached and driven from the bench or whether Vernon H. Burke was disbarred. It is more important, he declared, to cleanse the bench of the county so that property, liberty and life may be safe in the hands of the seven men constituting the court.

the story of P. Molokoff, who arrived here dulging to excess. from Nunivak Island, Alaska, is true, the passengers and crew of the steamer Jessie, numbering fifteen, were not drowned at the mouth of the Kuskowim river, as reported several weeks ago, but were murdered by Indians. Molokoff says just before he left Nunivak island the Indian wife of a hunter and trader named Marstem returned to Nunivak from Kuskowim, where she had been visiting relatives, and reported that when the Jessie and barge Minerva went ashore in the breakers a number of Indians were on the beach and rendered assistance in getting the whites ashore and saving supplies from the barge. After being comfortably camped the Indians demanded a large portion of the supplies as payment for services, which, according to the Indian woman's story, was refused. A few nights later, while all were asleep, the Indians made a rush on the camp, killing the entire party, including Missionary Webber, his wife and child. After the massacre the bodies were stripped of clothing and valuables. They were then taken in canoes a considerable distance from shore and thrown into the sea. Molokoff's story is partially corroborated by a letter from Marstem received by Barneson & Chilcoot, who owned an interest in the Jessie. Marstem asks for an investigation.

RUMORED PURCHASE A FABLE

United States Has No Intention o Buying Island in Indian Ocean.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.-An official denial is given to the story coming from Stock and Grain exchange. He said he gathered, not only has our government made visability of acquiring a coaling station in that quarter of the world. Still, now that the suggestion has been given publicity, officials are not wanting who come forward in advocacy of some such proposition. There is reason to suspect that in this particular case the publication is really a feeler, intended to convey to the United States in an indirect manner the disposition of the British government to let us have this island of Socotra on the conditions named, not only as an evidence of good will, but perhaps from the more selfish motive of strengthening a nation that might be a most valuable ally in operations in the east.

LONDON, Nov. 23 .- Inquiry at the foreign office here shows there is no foundation for the report emanating from Vienna that negotiations are proceeding between the United States and Great Britain with a view to the ession to the former of the island of Socotra, in the Indian ocean, for a coaling station for American war ships.
